

TIS Classroom Engine Tools

My family and I have read the TIS community letter about Engine Changers and Classroom Tools. We understand that my classroom has some tools I can use to help me focus and do my best during the day (or keep my engine 'just right' for learning). My class has discussed different ways to use the tools and what is expected in our room.

TIS will continue the collaboration with the UNM Occupational Therapy Graduate Program this year. Robin Leinwand is our school occupational therapist and is working with UNM. She is here to support classrooms and teachers in effective use of engine tools.

TIS Essential Agreements for Classroom Engine Tools

1. Use the tools safely to help your engine
2. Be respectful of others' space
3. Take care of the tools

I will follow the Essential Agreements. My parents or I will ask my teacher if we have any questions or concerns.
